POSITIVE FAMILY VALUES

A family is the microcosm of a community, the smallest component of a society. Being part of one is very integral to our existence as a human being. It is a place which begins with respect for and appreciation of others no matter how old, how young, how capable they are or the choices they make. Family extends to individual's choices of who they call family.

Today we live in a world where families have to face many tough scenarios with context to work-life balance, both parents working, children being influenced by media, physical & mental health issues, lack of quality time and more. 'Caring Families for a Caring World' (CFCW) programme will help you answer some of these questions together as a family and also refresh the essential bond that makes your family unique and united.
